'Tis the Season of Goodwill

... All Year Long

Chamber Member Abbie Sell, a regular at our networking breakfasts, recently came across the following:

FOOD FOR THOUGHT:

Kylie Jenner releases a lip gloss, and people buy it.

Lebron James puts out a new shoe, and people buy it.

Matthew McConaughey is the spokesman for a car, and people want it.

Apple releases a new phone, and people stand in line for it.

One Direction releases a perfume, and it becomes viral on social media.

But when a friend or family member starts a new business, or when we meet someone new at a networking event, we can be wary of supporting them. Why are we so quick to support someone we don't know, whilst not supporting someone we do.

So, the next time you see a friend, fellow networker or Chamber Member posting about their business on social media, give them a quick like comment or share, and help spread the word.

Even when you don't need the product or service yourself, sharing will help them gain more exposure for their business - a simple 'like' really does help. Hats-off to all entrepreneurs and start-ups!

Abbie adds, "I don't take credit for thinking of this, but I'm sharing what I feel is an important message with my network".
